

LONELY LIEE IS ENDED IN MOUNTAINS

Found dying on the Mt. Wilson Trail a short distance above the Quarterway Monday afternoon, Miss Fannie McKenzie of Los Angeles is supposed to have taken her own life by a dose of poison. There was nothing about her to reveal her identity which was shrouded in mystery for a day. But her address was finally found to be 955 Winfield street, Los Angeles, where she resided with the family of C. B. Perkins. There the suicide theory was confirmed by several circumstances.

Without a known relative and not even knowing who her parents were, the woman had been a lonely figure among her acquaintances. She had formerly resided in Vermont with the Perkins family and when they came to Los Angeles a few years since she asked to be permitted to accompany them. She was past fifty years of age and of late her loneliness had weighed heavily upon her. Mr. Perkins reported she had tried previously to end her life. And when friends in Vermont were notified they replied by telegraph in such a way as to indicate that she had given them some sort of warning of what she had in mind.

The dying woman was found by Miss Knight of Pasadena who was coming down the trail. Mrs. Norman Clyde of Pasadena, a trained nurse who came along the trail opportunely, administered first aid remedies, but without avail. Marshal Udell and Deputy Cox were notified and went up the trail immediately. Finding the woman dead, Mr. Udell returned to Sierra Madre to notify Coroner Hartwell by telephone and returned to have the body brought down on a stretcher to the undertaking parlors of A. T. Gay.

BASKET PICNIC FOR CANYON LOT OWNERS

Under the auspices of the Canyon Park Improvement Association a big basket picnic will be held in Sierra Madre canyon on August 7, the first Saturday of next month. The association hopes to have every owner of canyon property present on that day, and others who are interested in the canyon. The dinner hour is set for two o'clock.

The regular meeting of the Canyon Park Improvement Association will be held Saturday evening, July 17, at 7:30 o'clock. Full attendance is desired.

AUTOBUS COMPANY GIVES HALF-HOUR SERVICE

Two cars an hour between Sierra Madre and Pasadena is the schedule now arranged by the Pasadena Autobus Company. Cars leave Sierra Madre on the hour and 20 minutes after the hour. Transfers are given to the Colorado street line operated by the autobus company. On the return trip cars leave the junction of Colorado street and Huntington drive at 15 and 40 minutes after the hour. The company expects to have a waiting room fitted up soon at the corner of Colorado street and Rose avenue in Lamanda Park, making that the transfer point. The rate to Lamanda Park is 10 cents and to Pasadena 15 cents, or 25 cents for the round trip. In Sierra Madre the cars run all the way to the canyon, charging five cents for local fares, and a surprising amount of local business has been developed.

GIGANTIC BATH TUB FOR BALDWIN HORSES

A hospital for horses, which has been built with all the care of a modern infirmary for human beings, is attracting much attention at the Santa Anita Rancho of Mrs. Anita Baldwin south of Sierra Madre. There a sick horse is treated and made well in the shortest possible time, and in his time of convalescence is surrounded by such luxuries that the equine would be forgiven if he immediately began to entertain hopes of a new malady.

The interior of the building is of white tile and the stalls are kept spotlessly clean. Not even a particle of dust can find permanent lodgment. A system of spraying the whole interior with water, hot or cold, prevents the harboring of any disease germs.

One of the most interesting features of the hospital is its bath tub. This bath tub is not unlike an ordinary one, such as is used, or would like to be used, by the sometimes less fortunate human biped, except that it is larger and that there is an ingenious system of pulleys and belts, by which the horse is caught up and, willing or not, soused into the water.

The hospital is an adjunct to the magnificent stable that Mrs. Baldwin has erected on the rancho, which was made famous in the days when her father, the late E. J. ("Lucky") Baldwin, owned it. The stable is probably the costliest and most modern in its arrangement of any in the country.

MAKE UP POLL TAX LOSS

According to a bulletin recently sent out from the state superintendent's office the county will have to levy taxes to make up a deficiency of about $5 cents per pupil on average daily attendance in elementary schools to make up for the loss of the poll tax fund this year. The poll tax which was eliminated by the voters last November provided about $550,000 for school funds. A portion of this has been made up by transferring money from the state's general fund to the school fund. The balance will have to be made up by the counties. Los Angeles county has about 74,000 pupils in elementary schools, making about $36,000 to be raised by taxation to make up the poll tax loss.

WHO? WHICH? WHAT?

Who persecutes you everywhere?
Which pest's the worst that flies the air?
What makes an honest christian swear?
The fly.

Who bites you on your pink left ear?
And when you dare to interfere
Departs with angry buzz and sneer?
The fly.

At mealtimes who is right on hand
Tho' uninvited, blithe and bland,
And pitches in to beat the band?
Flies—several.

All races are the lawful game;
White, red or black are just the same.
Mankind at large all cuss the name
Or fly.

But, gently judge this little pest;
His life is very short at best—
See! In your cream pot he's at rest.
Poor fly.

FINE PICNIC CROWD

Sierra Madre People Take Possession of Redondo Beach for Hilarious Day

Contrary to general expectations the seventh annual Sierra Madre picnic held under the auspices of the board of trade at Redondo Beach on Thursday proved a record breaker. Some had feared the financial stringency might keep many away, but it seemed to have the opposite effect of making them all the more anxious to take advantage of the bargain railroad and amusement rates. Others had prophesied that the big parade of the Elks' convention would prove too strong a counter attraction. But the number who turned out to the picnic proved that the annual beach frolic has become a sort of habit with the community.

Four large cars were fairly well filled when the picnicers left Sierra Madre. Nearly a hundred people made the trip by auto, joining the excursionists at the beach. Altogether the crowd was probably the largest which has attended a board of trade picnic.

The weather was ideal, the ocean was as big as ever, and everything worked together to raise the spirits of the crowd which gathered in the grove for the picnic dinner to the highest pitch of enjoyment.

In spite of a delay in starting the special trains were operated more nearly according to schedule than has usually been the case. The extra reached Sierra Madre on the return trip soon after seven, but a majority of the excursionists had stayed at the beach or stopped in Los Angeles for the evening, returning at all hours of the night.

KANSANS TO HONOR DISTINGUISHED VISITORS

Former Kansans living in Southern California are planning to give Governor Arthur Capper, Lieutenant Governor W. G. Morgan, D. W. Mulvane, Albert T. Ried, Henry J. Allen, W. P. Innes and their wives a royal reception upon their arrival in Los Angeles and their sojourn here.

They will be the guests of the Kansans organization Friday evening, July 30, and an informal dinner will be given at Christopher's at 740 South Broadway, to which all Kansans are cordially invited to attend. Plates will be $1.25, and reservations must be made in advance. These reservations can be made at Christopher's or at the office of John W. Huntsberger, 1118 Marsh-Strong Building, Phone F3214.

Saturday, July 31, a picnic will be held at Sycamore Grove by former Kansans in honor of the governor and lieutenant governor and their party. We hope this will be the largest gathering of Kansans ever held in Southern California. These arrangements are being made under the direction of H. H. Huntsberger, president of the State Association of Kansans.

H. H. HUNTSBERGER, Pres.

A Wave of Water.
There is no necessary connection between the advance of a wave and the forward movement of the water composing it, as may be seen by running the fingers along the keys of a piano. An inverted wave travels along, but the keys merely move up and down. Similarly a wave may often be observed running along the ripe ears of golden grain, while the stalks are firmly rooted in the soil. The onward progress of a sea wave is easily perceptible, and by watching some light substance floating on the surface the fact is revealed that the water is not moving with the same velocity.—Chambers' Journal.

The T. C. B. Club were pleasantly entertained by Miss Helen Sadler on Monday evening.

FREE SPACE REFUSED

Monrovia Officials and Local Newspapers Come to Showdown

Regarding a matter of public interest alike in Monrovia and Sierra Madre the Monrovia Messenger prints the following editorial:

Complaint was heard in Monrovia this past week that members of the city board of trustees were not keeping a promise made during the last campaign in that they are not causing to be published a list of the bills paid by them at each meeting.

In justice, it should be said now, that the board has sought to have these bills published but the two newspapers in Monrovia have refused to print them unless advertising rates were paid. The Messenger has been importuned by the board to accord them space, but has refused on the ground that these constitute a part of the corporate business of the city which should be set forth in a financial statement either printed annually or monthly. The transactions of the city council, especially those acts involving the expenditure of money, are matters which should be reported to the taxpayers in legal form, in precisely the same manner officers of other corporations report. But just why the newspapers should be called upon to donate space in order for the board of trustees to meet legal requirements, is unexplained.

Some time ago, the board directed the city clerk to make a list of the bills paid at each council meeting, and submit them to the newspapers, for publication. Following the next two meetings thereafter, these lists were given to the Messenger, and in each instance this newspaper refused to print them. The other Monrovia newspaper likewise refused to print them for the same reason advanced by the Messenger—the matter should be paid for.

In one way or another the same question has been raised at various times in Sierra Madre. The same campaign promises have been made regarding the publication of expenditures. But no attempt has ever been made to have them printed in this paper either free or otherwise.

Monrovia papers, like most others, are generous in the donation of space for every matter of public interest. Such matter as that described has no place in the news columns, though taxpayers who want to inform themselves should have the data within easy reach. But why the newspapers should be called upon to bear the expense of matters which are so clearly public business is beyond comprehension.

DICKSON-LEGUIN

Amid the soft glow of a myriad of candles, in a bower of fern and Shasta daisies, Miss Etta Dickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Dickson, became the bride of Mr. Joseph Leguin of Alhambra, on Wednesday evening. The ceremony took place at the Dickson home on Montecito avenue, at 7:45 o'clock, the Rev. Fred Staff officiating. Miss Gertrude Cook sang "Because" and "I Know a Garden," and as the Lohengrin wedding march was played by Mrs. C. L. Twycross six young ladies, the Misses Marian Decker, Hilda Caley, Maybelle Caley, Avis Preston, Mertie Preston, and Mrs. Merton Clark, gowned in white with corsage bouquets of Shasta daisies, marched down the stairway. They bore ropes of smilax, fern and Shasta daisies, which formed the aisle for the wedding party. The bride came in with her father and wore a gown of white net lace over cream crepe de chine. She carried a shower bouquet of white lilies and fern. The matron of honor was Mrs. Frances DeVore of Pasadena, who wore a white lace gown and carried white roses, and the maid of honor was Miss Marian Moody, cousin of the bride, who was gowned in yellow crepe meteor and carried yellow tea roses and fern. Mr. Merton Clark acted as best man. After the short ring ceremony, the happy couple received showers of rice and congratulations from their many friends under the wedding bell. A reception followed the ceremony and after the bride and groom had cut the wedding cake dainty refreshments were served. Those assisting Mrs. Dickson in receiving were Mrs. M. Moody and the Misses Verna Tribble and Dorothy McBean. A jolly crowd of young people later accompanied the bridal couple to Pasadena, where a warm reception awaited them at the DeVore home.

CITRUS THRIPS CONTROL DESCRIBED BY EXPERTS

That it is financially profitable to spray citrus trees in order to rid the fruit of the citrus thrips is the conclusion reached by the U. S. Department of Agriculture after an investigation into conditions in the San Joaquin Valley and in the orange groves of Southern California and Arizona. The citrus thrips is a minute orange-yellow insect which sucks juices from the leaves, the rind and the stems of citrus fruits much as the mosquito draws blood from human beings. Young trees in nurseries are blighted and rendered unsightly and the fruit itself is reduced in size and its attractive appearance impaired. Since the eating qualities are not injured, however, it has been argued that the control of the pest is more costly than the damage it does. From figures published in a new Farmers' Bulletin of the Department of Agriculture, No. 674, "Control of the Citrus Thrips in California and Arizona," it appears that this is not so.

At the present time many California packing houses divide their oranges into three grades, although in some cases no distinction is made between the first two. As far as injury from thrips is concerned, it has been calculated that 34 per cent of the fruit is first grade, 43 per cent second, and 23 per cent third. First grade fruit averages 37 cents more a box than second and second 28 cents more than third. Where only two grades are shipped there is an average difference of 51 cents a box between the two. With these differences in prices, spraying will raise the grade of a sufficient number of boxes to return a handsome profit on the investment.

In order to demonstrate this, the bulletin already mentioned takes an acre of 18-year-old navel orange trees as a basis for calculation. The total cost, including labor, of three applications of lime-sulphur is found to be $14.09. With a yield per acre of 324 boxes of fruit, spraying should raise 58 boxes, or 18 per cent, from the second to the first grade—only two grades being now considered. The difference in price between the two grades being 51 cents, this means increased receipts of $29.58 or a net profit per acre from spraying of $15.49.

Sprays Under Pressure

The application at high pressure of contact insecticides, preferably containing sulphur in solution, is declared to be the only cheap and effective way of controlling the thrips. Commercial lime-sulphur, sulphur-soda solution, and black-leaf tobacco extract are among the insecticides which have been found effective. Of these, commercial lime-sulphur is perhaps the cheapest and most convenient, for good grades may be purchased at a reasonable price and only require dilution with water to be ready for use. One gallon of a preparation testing 36 degrees Baume should be diluted with 56 gallons of water.

Sulphur-soda solution is equally effective but it must be made at home at a cost equal to that of lime-sulphur on the market. The formula for its manufacture is as follows:

Powdered sulphur, 30 pounds.
Powdered caustic soda (98 per cent), 15 pounds.

Water to make 30 gallons.
The sulphur is made into a paste with water, and, while the mixture is being constantly stirred, the soda added in sufficient quantity to start boiling. As the boiling becomes violent, water should be added to retard it. When all the sulphur has been taken into solution, the remainder of the water is added. The final product should be clear, amber-colored liquid, every 2 gallons of which should be diluted with 25 gallons of water for spraying.

Tobacco Kills Pests

Very good results are also obtained from plain tobacco extracts of sufficient strength. The extract should be 40 per cent nicotine and used preferably at the rate of one part to 800 parts of water. The commercial tobacco extract is convenient to handle and, at the rate of 1 to 800, costs approximately a cent and a half for each gallon of the diluted spray.

Three sprayings are regarded as necessary during the period between the falling of the petals and the time when the fruit is half grown. The first application should be given when four-fifths or more of the petals have fallen, the second from 10 to 14 days later, and the third application from two to four weeks afterwards. A fourth spraying is desirable in late August or September when the thrips are likely to congregate upon new shoots.

The spraying outfit should be set up, ready to put in operation, not later than April 1 and the necessary materials should be ordered in January or February in order to insure their being on hand when wanted. Detailed instructions for spraying orchards, nurseries and seed beds are contained in Farmers' Bulletin 674.

Six Rules to Observe to Prevent Disastrous Fires in the Mountains

RULES TO PREVENT MOUNTAIN FIRES

Precautions of the simplest kind would eliminate most of the loss resulting from forest fires, as shown by reports on the causes of the fires in the reserves last season.

Much could be accomplished by observance of the following six simple rules:

1. Be sure your match is out before you throw it away.
2. Knock out your pipe ashes or throw away your cigar or cigarette stump where there is nothing to catch fire.
3. Don't build a camp fire any larger than is absolutely necessary. Never leave it even for a short time without putting it OUT with water or dirt.
4. Don't build a camp fire against a tree or a log. Build a small one where you can scrape away the needles, leaves or grass from all sides of it.
5. If you discover a fire, put it out if possible; if you can't put it out, get word to the nearest U. S. forest ranger or state fire warden just as quickly as you possibly can.

The occasion was her birthday anniversary and one of the features of the delicious refreshments was a large birthday cake covered with candles.

Games of all kinds were enjoyed by the little guests.

Abner L. Morse of North Baldwin had a very pleasant visit this week from his two cousins, Abner Morse and Benjamin E. Morse of Canton, Mass. The Messrs. Morse are just returning from a trip to Alaska and the San Francisco exposition, and are now stopping at the Alexandria Hotel, Los Angeles, while they spend the week visiting relatives in Southern California.

In honor of Mrs. Billups of Atlanta, Ga., who is a visitor in Southern California at this time, Capt. and Mrs. J. A. Osgood entertained a few friends at supper on Monday evening last. The other guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Leigh, Miss Leigh, Mr. Olmstead Leigh, Miss T. H. Graham, Miss Ida Munsell, Miss Winter, Miss Ross and Miss Courtney Ross, all one time residents of Atlanta and other places in the South.

THE DAY WE CELEBRATE.

W HEN King George the Third,
Of whom doubtless you've heard,
Rose up in his wrath and sent forth a decree

That the Yankees should pay him a tax on the tea.
And sent with it, of course,
An army of Redcoats his will to enforce;
He thought they were green
As the tea, 'twill be seen;
And he thought he knew well
That they dared not rebel
And stand by their guns and his mandate defy.

And as history shows
And every one knows,
He did not suppose
He was aiding his foes
To lay the foundation for Fourth of July.

But our forefathers brave,
For liberty gave
Their lives and their fortunes our country to save.
While they trod paths of glory that led to the grave.

And they said to themselves, "Now, it isn't the thing
In this broad land of freedom to bow to the king."
So they loaded their muskets with which to reply.

And they hurled back this answer: "We never say die!
We will meet you,
And beat you
At such base tricks;

We will show you the 'Spirit of '76,'
And a theme will supply
For our children to boast of Each Fourth of July."

And so this is why
Independence is ours, and we tyrants
defy.

And the small and the great,
Will the day celebrate
As the years come and go,
That the fires on our altars may never burn low.

And waving our banner, "Old Glory," on high,
With its streamers of red,
To remind us how heroes and patriots
bled;

And its pure folds of white,
Telling eloquent tales of the fight for the right;

And its star splangled blue,
Which reflects heaven's hue,
We will show to the world
As this flag is unfurled,
We will ever be true
To the flag of our fathers—
The Red, White and Blue.

As were they when they fought in the days long gone by,
To make for this nation a Fourth of July.

—Mary P. Powers.

THE SILENT PART.

OUR nobler selves are silent. Evermore
The bragging Ocean boasts aloud
his power
To build an island or bring down
a tower
In sweep of tide or sudden tempest
roar,
But underneath, on Ocean's shut-in floor
Silent is nature's uncontested
dower Unvoiced to idle gazers from the shore.

OUR nobler selves are silent. Underneath
The egotistic lips of woe or mirth,
Unframed to language, purer passions breathe,
Unworded melodies of higher worth
Than uttered songs for which the world may wreathe
Our brows with laurel from the dusty earth. —Robertus Love.

THE OLD FASHIONED FOURTH.

OH, a wonderful, old fashioned Fourth
of July

It was that we had in the days long gone by!

How the sun would come up in a beautiful way—
We never had rain on that red letter day.
And what a great wagon load were we that drove

Away to the picnic at Waggoner's grove.

OH, Waggoner's grove! How its wide spreading oaks
Could shelter the frolics of old fashioned folks!

The fiddler came there with his fiddle
and bow,
The girl on the arm of her robed duster
beau,
And the deep voice floormaster that called the quadrille

Was black maned Van Asdell, who lived on the hill

OH, the whinny of horses was deep in the wood,
And the breath of the summer was bracing
and good!

The laughter of women rode light on the wind,
The children swung out where the forest
was vined,
And the red whiskered fiddler with rosin
and squeak

Was Antoine the hermit, who lived down
the creek.

OH, the Van Asdell voice was a rolling singsong
That deepened in tone as the day wore along!

The beat of the music was slow and profound,
The feet of the dancers went scraping
around,
And the man at the viol with short,
sturdy bow,

Was Peg Leg, who lived in a houseboat below.

OH, a wonderful, old fashioned Fourth
of July
It was that we had in the days long
gone by!

Old Antoine the hermit—his fiddle is still,
The black maned Van Asdell lies deep in his hill,
And Peg Leg, the 'cellist—oh, where is his bow,

And where are the Fourths of the long,
long ago?

—Unidentified.

BILLIARDS.

LIFE'S like a billiard game, we find,
Some easy shot we draw,
And then our rival leaves behind
A shot we never saw.
But he wins out, and always will,
Who never whines or kicks,
But with the tough leaves tries his skill
Persistently and sticks.

—Detroit Free Press.

SOLITUDE.

LONE are the untrod forests of the north,
Dreary the weltering wastes of ocean
main,
But he knows solitude who wanders forth
And seeks through cities for a friend in vain.

—Edgar Avery Marden.

Making the Little Farm Pay

By C. C. BOWSFIELD

In the production of poultry meat farmers work in a slow and restricted way unless they procure a good sized incubator and give proper attention to its management. Nearly every farmer can make it pay to keep chickens and ducks. The sale of young fowls at two months is highly profitable, and a large trade can be worked up in a short time.

In filling an incubator care must be taken to secure the freshest kind of fertile eggs, and they must not be chilled. It is never a good plan to use eggs over a week old. The sooner they are placed in the incubator after being laid the better hatch will result. The eggs that are held for many days are apt to become chilled in cold weather, and the germ gradually grows weaker with time. Eggs for incubation in cold weather should be gathered twice daily, especially on cold days, and they must be kept in a warm room of rather even temperature until used. Eggs that have been chilled may start to hatch, yet in most cases the germ is so weak that the chick will not be strong enough to break the shell at birth. There must be plenty of male birds for the eggs of a flock of chickens to be of high fertility. It is often a good plan in filling the incubator to place more eggs in the tray than it is expected to carry through the three weeks period. When the eggs are tested for fertility the infertile ones are removed, which usually gives plenty of room in the tray for the good eggs. In this manner a good sized hatch may be expected from the machine. Never put in the eggs until the chamber has been heated for forty-eight hours.

CHICKENS AND DUCKS ARE GENERALLY PROFITABLE.

Guarding the health of newly hatched chicks is of prime importance. The first week is the critical time. There have been found certain degrees of infection in white diarrhea bacillus. Some carry malignant infection, some so light that not many of the chicks infected die with it. The infection passes from hen to hen by means of the nest litter. The original source of infection is from the ovary of the mother hen. The organism is in the yolk. Chicks produced from these eggs have the disease when hatched.

The disease spreads from these to other chicks through the infected food, the water or by the normal chicks eating over the droppings. Infection would not take place from chick to chick if it were not for the sick chick drinking and eating with the well. This is why the disease can be stopped by the instant removal of each droopy chick and a thorough cleaning out of its droppings. Especially is this more easily done for the well if the disease does not show up in the infected until the third or fourth day.

The feeding of fresh buttermilk to the exposed was fully tried on certain farms where the disease appeared last year, and with due caution the results of the lactic acid treatment gave good results in large numbers of healthy, fast growing chicks.

Don't buy eggs from yards where this disease was known to have been last year, as the same old infected hens may still be there.

Coops should be made windproof and water proof on all sides, which also means top and bottom. Rubber roofing is cheap material if kept painted to roof the coops with. Ventilation is best given above the door, the ventillator covered with screen wire and protected from rain. Roomy and dry is the idea. Everything should be kept clean and with good care to keep them comfortable and good wholesome feed, including green food and free range, any farm flocks should go through the summer in good condition, lay well and not die off.

Why Cows Give More Milk.

Cattle used to be bred chiefly for work, says the Farm and Fireside. Therefore the cows did not give much milk. Breeds improved the thing for which they are selected.

In 1790 the work cows of Germany gave an average of a pint and a half a day. Interest in milk increased, and by 1800 the average yield was a quart and a half. Breeding went on milkward, and in 1810 the German cows averaged two quarts of milk each per day. In 1820 three, in 1830 four, and there the gain stopped for thirty years. But in 1860 the production had increased to six quarts and by 1870 to eight.

CONSIDERATION OF COUNTY IS URGED

Supervisor John J. Hamilton has introduced in the county government the policy of taking the entire county into consideration in distributing appropriations, improvements and other benefits. When the City of Los Angeles, through its Board of Public Utilities, proposed the erection of six viaducts at a cost of $4,260,000, the city and county each to pay $1,065,000, and the railways and industrial district to pay an equal amount, Supervisor Hamilton insisted that the county should not consider the proposal at all unless it was made a part of a comprehensive plan to do away with grade crossings throughout Los Angeles county. On his motion, the State Railroad Commission was invited to be present at an adjourned hearing on the 20th inst., and the county road commissioner was instructed to report an estimate of the cost of a plan for the whole county. It was on the same principle that Supervisor Hamilton made his fight to have the flood control question dealt with by the county as a whole, the city of Los Angeles bearing its proportion of the expense.

Thief Proof.

Some years ago a well known London solicitor, recently deceased, successfully defended a man charged with burglary, and a few days later there came by post a valuable gold hunter watch, with an inscription to the effect that it was a gift from a certain London society, presumably of doubtful practices. Years afterward the solicitor had the watch stolen from his waistcoat pocket, but it came back to him by post with a letter of apology, stating that "we never rob one of our pals."—London Answers.

Vacation Variety—

One way to have a happy time is to double up on work for half the week so as to get a half day off, hit the trail on a hot afternoon, eat a cold lunch by the wayside at the dinner hour, fall in the water at a dark stream crossing, stay up half the night dancing or listening to barber shop harmony with ukulele accompaniment, sleep three hours on the ground before being awakened for a hike up the mountainside to see the sunrise, work your head off chopping wood so you can take some chances on the cooking of a bunch of debutantes, inhale a few pounds of dust as you follow the procession down the trail, and then spend the following week recuperating from sore muscles, sunburn and indigestion.

Learning the Game—

Mountain vacationing is something that has to be learned like anything else. The only teacher is experience. But the number of people who know how to get genuine, healthful pleasure out of a mountain outing is constantly on the increase, which is an altogether good sign. A steadily increasing number of people are learning how to dress for comfort, how to brave the wilds without packing useless artillery, what is practical for the commissary department, how to cook with camp equipment, how to get a comfortable and sufficient sleep—in short, the happy medium between "roughing it" and home comfort. To economize in effort and expense without sacrifice of comfort and enjoyment is something of an art. Whatever profit one can attain from appreciation of nature is added gain. The achievement of a successful mountain outing is abundantly worth the mental and physical effort it costs. In striking contrast to the wholesomeness of such outings is the beach entertainment which seems to be craved by such multitudes. The more the multitudes the better they are suited. They dip in the surf (dip is right when there is no room to swim), fry on the sand, and then after putting on their funny feeling clothes wander down the pike to shoot chutes, dip dips, enjoy the reels, wheels and spools, ride sky-ripping racers, eat sandy popcorn and candy and come home feeling like a frapped persimmon. Next day they hunt the sunburn lotion. Now the worst feature of all this is not the particular things that are done but the inanity of it as a whole. It simply shows what punishment humans will go through for the sake of being entertained without exercising their grey matter. They want to buy their entertainment ready made. There may be some advantage in that sort of thing over the body building, brain stimulating pleasures of a mountain outing. But it does not appear at this range. However, there's no accounting for tastes.

Styles and Styles—

Vain search for a laugh through the pages of a funny paper was at last rewarded among the advertising pages where was offered "Milady's Decollete Razor." The ad explains that "current fashions decree that the underarm must be as smooth as the face." After those razors have been in use a few months there will probably be a sudden and radical change in shoulder and sleeve styles.

Bargains for Men—

Men laugh at the inferior intelligence displayed by women who are lured by "99-cent bargains," as if they were not themselves subject to the same inclinations. This is proved by automobile prices which are certainly not fixed to suit a feminine whim. Automobiles advertised in a current magazine are priced as follows: $1095, $785, $1095, $1175, $1750. The first three are certainly priced to attract the bargain hunting instinct. One maker of a $1095 car frankly says his is "the only car of its class priced under $1100."

Uncomfortable—

People who live in stone houses shouldn't throw glass.

Real Competition—

Speaking of the Fourth of July picnic dinner the society editor of the Arcadia Journal says: "After everyone had been generously served to competition the exercises for the afternoon were advanced." Bill Millard, the dairyman, was one of the big noises of that celebration and I'll bet a bucket of water against a bottle of milk that Bill had something to do with that "competition" business.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Pony That Knew Just What to Do.

"ANIMALS know more than some people realize," said daddy. "I had at most said that they know more than some people know. But animals cannot talk, so they have to show their knowledge in other ways. I will tell you a little story about a pony, which proves what I have said."

"This was a very pretty little pony, with dappled spots, just the nicest, fattest, most comfy pony for a little boy to ride that you ever saw. He belonged to a little boy named Roy."

"The pony could gallop and trot and canter and lope and had all the gaits which a well trained pony should have, for he had been well broken before Roy's daddy bought him for him, and Roy, who was about seven years old, grew to be a very expert rider."

"It was a pleasing sight to see the little boy start off on a ride with his pony—or, rather, on his pony's back. He sat very gracefully in his saddle, and he held the bridle just right, and everybody who saw them admired them. I think the pony enjoyed it as much as Roy did. He liked to trot and amble and canter along the smooth roads, past the green woods and in the brilliant sunshine, and he and his little master loved each other very much. The pony, whose name was Tobias, would eat lumps of sugar out of Roy's hand, and Roy would pet him and be glad that he owned him."

"At last, upon a brilliant summer day, Roy rode Tobias out of the stable one afternoon for a delightful canter down by the road which led to a beautiful lake. It was awfully warm that day, but Roy did not mind this at first. Soon, however, he noticed that the sides of Tobias were all wet with perspiration."

"So Roy pulled Tobias to a walk so he wouldn't feel quite so warm. But after a little time Roy got to feeling rather queer himself. He felt dizzy, and his stomach felt sick, and all of a sudden he just slid down out of the saddle, his feet luckily leaving the stirrups all right and lay limp and still on the road. Tobias sniffed around for awhile, and then he turned and trotted home, and he neighed and whinnied and trotted back and forth until Roy's daddy got on his back and went down the road and found the little boy, who had had a sunstroke."

"He was all right again in a day or two, and he declares, and so do his parents, that Tobias just knew something was the matter with Roy and ran home to tell his parents about it, and Tobias was much petted after that, you had better believe."

WESTERN COAST RECIPES.

CHICKEN Portola a la Coppa.—Take a fresh coconut and cut off the top, removing nearly all the meat. Put together three tablespoonfuls of chopped coconut meat and two ears of fresh green corn cut from the cob. Slice two onions into four tablespoonfuls of olive oil, together with a tablespoonful of dried bacon fried in olive oil. Add one chopped green pepper, half a dozen tomatoes stewed with salt and pepper, one clove of garlic and cook all together until it thickens. Strain this into the corn and coconut and add one spring chicken cut in four pieces. Put the mixture into the shell of the coconut, using the cut off top as a cover and close tightly with a covering of paste to keep in the flavors. Put the coconut in a pan with water in it and set in an oven well heated for one hour, basting frequently to keep the coconut from burning.

Fritto Misto.—Take a lamb chop, a piece of calf brain, one sweetbread, a slice of veal, a fresh mushroom, sliced Italian squash, a piece of asparagus or of cauliflower and dip these into a batter made of an egg well beaten with a little flour. Sprinkle these with a little lime juice and fry to a delicate brown in butter, adding salt and pepper to taste.

Soles With Wine.—Take filets of sole and pound lightly with blade of a knife, then soak them two hours in well beaten eggs seasoned with salt and pepper. When ready to cook roll them in breadcrumbs and fry in olive oil. Take a little of that oil and put in another pan with a tablespoonful of butter and season with salt and pepper and again cook fish in this, adding one-half glass of dry white wine. Let cool five minutes.

Spanish Chicken Pie.—Cut up a chicken and boil until tender. Cut up and fry in chicken fat two onions, two green peppers, stirring in one and one-half tablespoonfuls of flour. Have ready five tomatoes, stewed, and put in two dozen ripe olives, with a small clove of garlic, mashed. Grate seven large ears of corn, season with salt and put a layer in a greased pan, then chicken, then the other ingredients, with a little of the gravy. Stir all together and bake until brown.

The Generous Host.

Parvenu took his wife and two other women to lunch at a fashionable hotel. As they seated themselves in the lofty, oval dining room Mrs. Parvenu whispered to her husband: "Ask for a menu, Jack." Parvenu puffed out his chest and chuckled. "One menu only?" he said. "One menu for four. No, no; I'll do the thing well now I've started it. Here, waiter, four menus—fresh ones, mind, and see that they're not overdone."—Detroit Free Press

Damascus.

Damascus, the oldest city in the world with a continuous history, is the political and business center of its district. It lies 2300 feet above sea level in a fertile oasis surrounded by barren mountains and desert. The wonderful productiveness of this oasis is due to the abundance of water supplied by the seven rivers of Damascus.
